I travelled twelve miles on Wednesday afoot, and got very tired; kept with the train miles on Friday; but this, again, was afoot. Here a party of five negroes met us and told us that the rebels had attacked our train two miles in advance, on Waldron's Ridge, but our Captain gave no heed to the report, and moved steadily forward. We were soon brought to a stand by retreating teams, and, now being convinced of the truth of the negroes' report, we began to pack our train for announced that it was only "a scare," that all was clear in front, and the teams wheeled into line and went forward; but we had not gone half a mile until the forward teams again turned, and drove for the rear with all possible speed. I had requested the Captain in charge of the train to organize his guard and make ready for defence, which he did,

Seargeant, of Illinois, informed me that he had in charge thirty-nine wagens loaded with sanitary stores sent from Chicago, which were all de-stroyed. Two trains, of fifteen or twenty wagons each, loaded with ammunition, be-sides a large wagen loaded, besides a large number wagons loaded with stroved, but was informed by the rebels that it was 335, which, I think, is not an overestimate, for the reason that the rebels took 583 prisoners, most of whom were teamsters. They also drove off with them a large number of mules, killing, as I was informed, a large number when the train was captured. The rebels seemed in a great hurry to leave nd, after taking from the town such articles as they could carry, set fire to the wagons and hurried off with the prisoners. The rebels Cumberland Mountain, where we halted about an hour, when the command reached us to move forward, that the Yankees were pressing of paroling us, but very soon we were ordered on again. We reached McMinnville about 3 o'clock Sunday morning, where we found the rebels in possession, burning our stores. There the most inhuman act of all was perpetrated by the Southern chivalry. After having marched our men for forty-eight hours, without anything to eat or allowing them to sleep, they compelled them, under a threat of murdering them, to carry our stores from the Court-house to the bonfire in the street. Against that I protested, asking for time to that was what they were brought here for.' My reply was, 'Very well, sir, you may be a prisoner some day." Some of our men stag-

The prisoners were robbed of everything they had, money, overcoats, satchels, and, in fact, even their hats and boots, and the rebels informed us that we were getting off well at that. THE PURSUIT AND CAPTURE OF MORGAN Though time has passed since the raid of A bout the 20th of June I received orders from Brig. Gen. Hobson to have my regiment in readiness to leave Columbia for Tompkinsville at a moment's notice. Well convinced by experience of the importance of Columbia as a position to defend Kentucky from a threatening enemy who was on the south banks of the Cumberland, I freely expressed to the General my fears of going so far as Tompkinsville. I said we are throwing onen a gate of our error and overtake him. Gen. Hobson fully coincided with me as to the error of the movement, but had to obey the order, as it came from a superior in point of position. Frequently on our march did we express our fears and predict what did take place from Cross-roads to defeat, if possible, any attempt of the enemy to cross at Burksville, being well convinced that he would attempt to cross the Cumberland at that point. With his cavalry he occupied Tempkinsville. Here, I suppose, General Judah, seeing his error, or-dered him back to Marrow Bone, still nearer to Burksville than the Cross-roads. The un necessary and useless march had much de creased the efficiency of our cavalry. On the second day of July I was ordered by General Hobson to send two hundred men, under a competent officer, if possible to go into Burks-ville. I sent Captain Hardin, an officer I had every confidence in. They soon fell in with the pickets of the enemy and drove them six miles. Being overwhelmed here by superior forces of the enemy they were forced to re-treat, fighting all the way back, often hand to hand. A courier requested me to form in line of battle. I had only some ninety men with came up, and with a shout we dashed on the General Hobson, now convinced that the enemy were in force at Burksvills, despatched ferent regiments, freshly mounted and sent ahead by order of Gen. Burnside on the cars, come up in the nick of time. Two roads come to a common road. The struggle is which shall arrive first. Morgan leads. Rue, almost des-pairing, pursues on. Seeing a road leading off, almost by intuition he also of a base of a a courier to Brigadier General Shackelford, whose command were at the Cross-roads. With great alacrity this efficient officer brought his command forward. Early the next morning they started a strong command of infantry, cavalry, and artillery to a point on the Burksville and Columbia road. A courier was despatched to Brigadier General Judah informing him of what had been done. He immediately on recep-"Does that road come into this one again, and "Does that road come into this one again, and is it nearer to the joint where they approach than the main road?" "It does, and is much nearer." With renewed hope, he dashes off and ran in ahead some 150 yards and rapidly formed a line of battle. Morgan, with his usual audacity, sends in a flag of truce and demands an uncovaritional surrender. Rue indignantly information to the prostage, that he tion started another courier ordering the force started in the morning back. The command was immediately obeyed, and thus was Morgan saved from having his command cut in two and captured on the banks of the Cumberland. In the meantime Morgan had passed on to Columbia, where a most gallant indignantly informs the messenger that he does not belong to the militia that he can be passed on to Columbia, where a most gallant defence was made by Capt. Carter with one hundred and fifty men of Wolford's regiment. Forced to retire, after the loss of their gallant leader, they gave warning to Col. Wolford. Morgan then attacked Col. Moore at the Green river bridge, who had only a few hundred men with him, but sufficient to gain a glorious victory on the annivers rry of our National birthday. Marching on after their repulse, they attacked Col. Hanson and his regiment. After a mental surrender to ten titnes their number. In the deceived ir that manner, that he is a Major of the 9th Kentucky Cavalry, and that if Morgan worthy of Kentuckis, they were forced to surrender, and that he will hold him and his command until his superior, General Spackeford, arrives. In about one hour the urenit, after being delayed many hours. We started on the 4th day of July, and rode all day and night. At night we were forced to stop until we could procure rations by the Louisville and Nashville railroad. Started again in pursuit early Tuesday. Found that force under a bold sagacious leader, left to his own fertile resources. The great difficulty the Federal officers have to contend with, is ana. By night we were in nine miles of Brandenburg. The General wishing to cooperate with the gunboats and make a night atours at least until recently, they swarm in front of their armies, fifty, sixty, and even a hunerate with the gunboats and make a night at tack, proceeded with a small escort to Rock Haven. We found the gunboats had gone up the river. It was nearly one o'clock A.M. before he returned. Finding the men overdred miles, obtaining every intelligence whilst preventing any from being obtaincome with fatigue and want of sleep, and aled the river as the last boat load of the enemy bad crossed. The enemy burnt one boat; the o contend with. Half armed and always others to aid us in crossing. The St. Louis, which was at Rock Haven a few miles above, came down and we commenced crossing. By coght we had quite a fleet and were occupied equal. But what we want particularly, is de-pendent of the cavalry that should remain with the great armies, is from eighty to one hundred thousand cavalry, in squads of from five to ten thousand, divided into mounted in nouses by the vandal enemy; also the scene of towns were thronged with an excited people who received us with joyous acclamations. We marched to a late hour in the night, and then up again before daylight. Her movements of their own armies; at the same ited tower, subject only to the department at Washington. If we had such a force in the field at the present time, under competent leaders, we could strike at the very vitals of the so-called Southern Confederacy, and bring dies met us everywhere with abundant pro hem to terms in less than ninety days. All he railroads in the South could be destroyed and kept so. Every State, unless it might be you would sustain such a force, the answer is ready: just as Morgan and the Confederate ness, and many a brave Kentucky youth sur munication and prevent the rapid concentraion of one rebel force to sustain another, which came so near being disastrous to Mcpassed, her brave militia swarm from every Clellan in the seven days' fight near Richmond, and lately against Rosecrans. The enemy could not meet such a force. Their present cavalry would be abundantly employed porses from both sides of the road, and leaving our regular cavalry, and they have neither

Horse after Journal of Commerce has been permitted to make the annexed extract from a private letter written by a gentleman of influence and enlightened liberality in England, to his brother in that city:
Our papers are filled just now with Hon. Charles Sumner's spoken pamphlet against England. It is a pity that there should be any seed of truth in it from which he should so inthree days and nights, and then come in, with unvarnished attempt to inflame the passions of the people. It may be that our people have ernment has not done all which it might have lone towards a friendly power, with whose still the rebel chieftain keeps about the same distance ahead. Every man is incintry full of life—the long expected tribution, of the slave power, to wish to embark their means in a fruitless crusade against England. I say fruitless, for even if they could succeed, so far as to wrest Canada from us, whatever good it might be to them, it would not be the annihilation of England, and they will not get it without such a new expenditure of morey and blood as might well deter from the attempt, supposing such considerations to have any weight at all.

CATARRH! CATARRH! R SEELYE'S LIQUID CATARRH BEMEDY-a sure cure for CATARRH or OO. D N THE HEAD. It is easier to cure Catarrh than ensumption, and by curing the first we prevent the C-psumption, and by curing the first we prevent the latter.

The symptoms of Catarrh, as they generally appear, are at first very slight. Persons find they have a c li, and and that they have frequent attacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition the rose may be dry, or a slight discharge, thin and acrid, afterward becoming thick and adhesive. As the discase becomes chronic the discharges are increased in quantity and changes in quality; they are now thick and heavy, and are either got rid of by blowing the nose, or else they fall into the throat and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the voice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath; the woice is thick and nasive, causing a bad breath in the second of the comment of the comment.

TERDAY'S ELECTIONS.—The telegraphi despatches received up to one o'clock this morning are confused, but their import is unmistakable. Mr. Brough has been elected Governor of Ohio by a largely increased vote over Tod's majority, and Curtin is re-elected Governor of Pennsylvania by an increased majority over his former election. From other States where elections were held yesterday, we have no definite returns. It is not the hour, as we write, to comment upon these results; they will afford instructive themes for future discussion, and we meet them in a high and patriotic spirit, confident that the Union must be preserved in its integrity, and convinced that the people, families of volunteers having run out, the who are the ultimate arbiters of our national fate, will either endorse their yesterday's decision if right, or correct it at a proper time by the remedies which the constitution and about 15,000 women and children are relieved. the laws afford them.

LO.AHZ. IODINE WATER

a solution of pure Iodine in pure water. It acts upon the HEART, LIVER, KIDNEYS, DIGESTIVE ORGANS, and GLANDULAR SYSTEM. The unparalleled success in private practice, and the endorsement of high medical authority, enables us to recommend lodine Water for the cure of Scrofula in all forms, Consumption, Cancer, Bronchitis, Heart, Liver, and Kidney Diseases, Rheuma tism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Female Weaknesses, Dyspepsia, Syphilis, Mercurial

As a TONIC, its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and exing the appetile. In cases of Dyspepsia, naciation, and Debility an increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employ-ment of Iodine Water. The patient recovers flesh, strength, and color; hitherto paie, relaxed, and feeble, he becomes full, strong, and Icdine Water is put up with full directions around each bottle, that it may be used as a family medicine as well as by the practitioner. Physicians may rely upon the uniform strength of this solution, as containing 3. grains of Iodine in each fluid ounce, no solvent being used. It is not liable to decomposition, nor spontaneously-formed inequalities; neither is the Iodiae neutralized by combination with any ingredient, rendering this solution superior to any other method in which he can exhibit Iodine.

Price $1 per bottle; $5 per half dozen. Sold

An Extract from the August number of the Bible Examiner," Edited by Rev. George Storrs.—IODINE WATER.—In this number our Magazine we introduce to the attenof our readers this medical preparation We have done so, not for pay, nor because our pages are used as a medium of advertise ment—for we have uniformly declined them— but gratitude to God, and a sense of obligaion to Dr. Anders & Co., has made us inser

the following:

My only son, George F. Storrs, now 37 years old, has been afflicted for some dozen years, more or less, with painful swellings and inflammations in various parts of his body; oftentimes, seemingly, he was near to death; then a respite for a season, but only for a return of the disease with more violence. For the past three years he has had an open sore on his breast, and latterly one near his collar on his breast, and latterly one near his colla-bone, with ulceration in his throat, that was rapidly increasing, so that dissolution appeared inevitable. In this condition he applied to Dr. Anders & Co. By the use of the Iodine Water the ulceration in his throat disappeared in a short time. Continuing its use, in less than two months he was apparently he and his general health much improved. This son, whom I had feared would fall asleep in death before this summer should close, is now, apparently, in a fair way to recover as perfe health as is common to our mortal state. In gratitude to God, who has thus answered prayer, and in justice to Dr. Anders & Co., I have made this statement, satisfied that there is virtue in the Iodine Water treatment which editor for bringing to their notice.

Important Notice to Tax-Pavers. In the routine of every-day business tax-payers are too apt to forget their obligations to the Commonwealth. We remind them that city government for the current year has more than half expired. Delinquents should bear in mind that the collectors are under heavy bond to make returns in weekly instalments, and it is with difficulty that they have thus far been enabled to meet their engagements the city. They have already exercise much forbearance, and tax-payers should show factures of makers of well known reputation as wel their appreciation of their generosity by calling and settling at once, and thereby avert the taking of legal measures on the part of the collectors, whose duty it is to enforce prompt payment.

I de this more readily in regard to Hoofland's German Bitters, prepared by Dr. C. M. Jackson, of this city, because I was prejudiced against them for many years, under the impression that they were chiefly an alcohole mixture. I am indebted to my friend Robert Sheemaker, Esq., for the removal of this prejudice by proper tests, and for encouragement to try them, when suffering from great and long-continued debility. The use of three bottles of these Bitters, at the beginning of the present year, was followed by evident relief, and restoration to a degree of bodily and mental vigor which I had not felt for six months before, and had almost despaired of regaining. I therefore thank God and my friend for herefore thank God and my friend for disecting not be use of them.
